

I'm worth...

Caring for

Treating

Listening to Informing

Information for people living with hep C

Stock imagery, posed by models

---

Everyone with hepatitis C is entitled to receiving care.

Hep C is treatable and curable in the majority of patients.

Hep C affects thousands of people in the UK. You might be among those living with the day-to-day reality of being infected with a virus that can cause permanent damage to the liver, and potential health problems in other parts of the body.

It is important to remember that hep C is a virus; it is not something that defines you as a person. You're worth the best care and treatment.

The longer you have lived with hep C, the more likely it is that your liver may be damaged and your health in the long-term could be affected.

If you have hep C, don't ignore it; speak to your doctor to find out what treatment and care options are right for you.

Visit

www.imworth.co.uk

for more information, useful resources
and to hear about others experiences

Recent advances in medicines
for hep C

that work better,
have shorter
treatment times
and are easier on the body are now available on the
NHS.<sup>1</sup>

It doesn't matter
how you got hep C;
no one deserves
to live with a potentially life
threatening
disease

when today's treatments offers a possible cure.

Everyone is worth

the chance of becoming hep C free.

---

Treatment has the potential to cure people of hepatitis C. Today the chance of achieving that cure is better than ever before for most patients.

Choosing to start treatment is not always an easy decision and each person's reason for considering care is different. You may want to experience fewer symptoms, avoid long term complications and improve health, or get relief from fear and anxiety that hep C may cause you.

By getting a referral to meet with a specialist you will be able to speak to them about what treatment and care options are right for you.

Visit

www.imworth.co.uk

for more information, useful resources
and to hear about others experiences

References

1. Gilead Sciences: Hep C. <http://hepc.co.uk/> [Accessed February 2017]

The I'm Worth... campaign is a disease awareness programme, that has been developed and paid for by Gilead Sciences Ltd, a science-based pharmaceutical company. Content development has been supported by input from numerous patient groups with an interest in hepatitis C in the UK. Individual contributors are speaking from their personal experience.